MARCH 2017

REV. ARTHUR "GUY" FOUTS, PRIEST-IN-RESIDENCE

This Month in Stewardship Meeting Together

St. James' is a community.

Think about what we do at St James'. It usually involves meeting together. We meet for corporate prayer in the sanctuary and share liturgy steeped in history. For me, personally, my brain is awakened and comforted by our prayer book. The prayers have words that I heard in my childhood. Some of our hymns reach deep into my emotional core. We share the peace and emotionally embrace one another either with a hand shake, hug or wave.

Fellowship activities afford us times for fun together. I have mental images of us as we "meet and eat" at different times and occasions. Any call to action to our cooks is always met with great contributions for our pot-luck dinners. First Sundays of the month find our hallways redolent with the aroma of BACON (the almost perfect food, next to chocolate - IMHO). Our picnic is memorable for burgers and hot dogs cooking along with guitar music. We have a boar's head dinner that breaks the chill of January and the St. Patrick's day dinner that ushers in the warmth spring. We share the chance of winning the "prize car" for our Stewardship Dinner and share laughter during the Match Game/Family Feud and Bunco games.

Our ministries and maintenance mornings provide the vehicle for us to come together and do God's work here and in the community at large. We knit for the seafarers to keep them warm at sea. We collect food and assemble bags of groceries at holidays for those in need and contribute gifts for the Christmas Tree of Giving. We provide backpack supplemental nutrition for school-age children during the summer. And we meet at any number of times to personify the notion that many hands make light work as we green the sanctuary for Christmas, tend our church gardens, paint or complete building repairs.

Each of the above is an example of stewardship and caring for our community and each other.

This month we will have another opportunity to meet. It is the ANNUAL MEETING. There will be one service at 9:00AM and then we will gather in Snyder Hall and meet and eat. We will thank our elected leaders who cycle off either as a vestry member or as a delegate to the diocese convention, and we will elect our parish leaders. I am thankful for Kathy Erwood-Lacouture, Karina Hernandez, and Claudia Scala who have stepped forward to stand for election to serve on the vestry, for Chika Okoye, to serve as a delegate to the convention and for Chris Vitalos to serve as an alternate. I am especially thankful for the opportunity to serve as a warden with Barbara Olesen who has stepped forward to serve as Junior Warden for an additional year. An Annual Report will be available for your perusal. In it you will find the groups that meet to accomplish God's purpose on our corner of Washington and Moore Streets. Please review it with an eye to thinking about where some of your talents might be used.

Bishop Beckwith calls for the election of the next Bishop of Newark

February 28, 2017

Dear members of the Diocese of Newark,

Earlier today I informed the Standing Committee of the Diocese and the Diocesan staff that I am calling for the election of the next Bishop of Newark. Given that the search and call of a bishop takes 18 months, the Presiding Bishop's office has set a date of September 22, 2018 for the consecration of the 11th bishop of the diocese, shortly after I turn 67. When I came to the diocese as bishop, I had made a commitment to my family and myself that I would serve as Diocesan Bishop for ten years. It will end up being nearly twelve. I intend to be fully engaged as Bishop until the time of my successor's consecration.

It has been an enormous privilege to serve as Bishop of this extraordinary diocese for the past ten years. The gift of serving the people and congregations of the Diocese of Newark has been an incredible blessing to me. I have learned so much about God, God's people and myself. I have been cherished and challenged; and I have been warmly welcomed and cautiously greeted – all of which is part and parcel of what it means to be a vital community of faith.

I look forward to continuing the journey with you for the next year and a half. We have much to do as God's people – as we listen to scripture, each other, our communities and the Holy Spirit to help us fashion a new way of living, grounded in the Gospel and rooted in our faith. The collective energy generated from Going Local clergy and congregations, from the fall Listening Tables, from Diocesan Convention and from the growing commitment to engage in disciplined listening, says to me that more and more people and congregations are shaping and being shaped by the journey. We are learning as we go – all the while inviting others to join and offer their creativity and imagination. My hope and prayer is that the process of electing the next bishop will be an invitation to join the diocese on this journey of Joining God in Shaping our Future, offering his or her gifts and wisdom as we continue to see what God is up to.

I don't have any definitive plans after September 22 of next year, other than to have more available time to be a grandfather and get to Fenway Park. That said, my continuing experience here in the diocese has inspired me to discern new ways of joining God in God's work. I can't tell you how grateful I am for learning – here in this diocese, how important that has become.

Peace,

Mark

Veiling the Crosses During Lent

Coming from the Catholic tradition, I remember my relief at seeing the crosses veiled on Passion Sunday...just two weeks before Easter. Whatever I was giving up for Lent - whether it was the ever popular candy or fighting with my brother - soon would be only a distant memory as Easter would soon arrive to free me from my state of self-imposed denial.

Bill and I began attending St James' just after Easter in 2000. So imagine my confusion when the purple veils appeared on the Crosses on Ash Wednesday. And then I was further confused as the color changed from purple to red then white and finally black. No one ever explained why even after I was placed in charge of the Altar Guild. And one year because this tradition was NOT on my Lenten observance radar, the veils never came out of storage as we all forgot! Cathy never mentioned it or called the omission to my attention. And guess what? Easter came anyway that year!

But still this custom puzzled me, and I decided to research it. What follows is a summary of what I learned.

The custom of covering crosses during Lent began in 9th century Europe and by the 10th was common practice in England. As documented by Hildemar of Corbie around 845 in his Commentary on the Rule of Benedict... "liturgical elements suggestive of joy and happiness including vestments, vessels and other delight should be removed during Lent." So Lenten veils (like the practice of omitting the Alleluia) emphasizes the penitential character of Lent...functioning as symbols of mourning and penance and helping the faithful concentrate on the work of Christ's redemption.

Processional crosses, crucifixes, pictures, and statues have been veiled either throughout Lent or during Passiontide Passontide ie. the last two weeks of Lent. In some churches the custom is to cover crosses only after stripping the altar on Maundy Thursday. Veils are purple, red, white and sometimes black usually corresponding to the required color of the frontal. However, veiling is not required by the Episcopal Church.

In addition, there are no flowers during Lent as it is meant to be an unadorned time of the Church year. The idea is to remove anything that may distract us as we journey with Jesus to Calvary.
